South Shore Art Center's Biennial Art Forum: May 5-16, 2010

Exhibition showcases work of Middle School Students from area schools

Cohasset – South Shore Art Center will showcase the eclectic and innovative artwork of middle school students in its biennial exhibition Art Forum, opening Wednesday, May 5, 2010. The exhibition will kick-off with an opening reception from 4:30-6:30 pm. The reception is free and open to the public.

Art Forum features the work of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students at thirteen middle schools: Cohasset Middle School, East Middle School (Braintree), Frolio Middle School (Abington), Furnace Brook Middle School (Marshfield), Galvin Middle School (Canton), Hanover Middle School, Hingham Middle School, INLY School (Scituate), Norwell Middle School, Sacred Heart (Kingston), South Middle School (Braintree), and South Shore Charter School (Norwell).

“Art Forum gives the Art Center—and our gallery visitors—an exceptional opportunity to peek inside the art classrooms around the South Shore and see the exciting work being done by so many creative students. This is always a highlight of our exhibition calendar and we are very pleased to be working with the many art teachers who help young artists create at a very high level,” commented Heather Collins, director of community programs at the Art Center.

Art Forum will be on exhibition from May 5 through May 16. South Shore Art Center galleries are open, Monday through Saturday, 10 am-4 pm, and Sunday, Noon-4 pm.
